In a secularizing world, Lent is a word which still 'connects' with people. Whether or not you give anything up for Lent should not stop you using Lent as a time to try something new or engage with new ideas. Some of this year's programme is overtly religious, and some of it is designed just to get us thinking. So please join us for some of this year's events: we've got lectures, music and discussion and, most importantly, time to explore new experiences.
